Mt. Diablo school board close to hiring Lawrence

STEVEN LAWRENCE: current WUSD superintendent may soon take job in Concord district

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Steven Lawrence, superintendent of the Washington Unified School District, is the top candidate for the superintendent's post at Mount Diablo Unified School District in Concord. Mount Diablo's school board plans to meet on Friday in West Sacramento as part of its vetting process, a Mount Diablo staff member told the News-Ledger. The Mt. Diablo board plans to meet with WUSD school board members and staff prior to making a possible hiring decision Friday evening.

Mount Diablo is a much larger school district than Washington, with about 35,000 students to WUSD's 7,200. Mount Diablo is currently operated by an interim superintendent, Dick Nicoli.

Lawrence, 46, was hired by WUSD. He came to the district as a former assistant superintendent in the Roseville Joint Union High School District.

Lawrence declined comment to the News-Ledger yesterday. WUSD Board President Mary Leland did not immediately return a call requesting comment.

In his tenure at WUSD, Lawrence has presided over the construction of a new high school and conversion of a number of local "kindergarten through sixth grade" schools to "K-8" schools.

New ordinance targets tobacco sales to minors

License fee to help pay for enforcement

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento will soon require tobacco retailers in the city to purchase a license. Proceeds will help pay for enforcement of laws preventing tobacco sales to minors.

Yolo County and the City of Davis already have adopted similar ordinances, reported a joint press release from Yolo and West Sacramento.

In the press release, West Sacramento Police Chief Dan Drummond credited local teenage activists for pushing for the new ordinance.

Southport intruder convicted by jury

A 21-year old man was convicted on Friday of felony counts of burglary and possession of stolen property, two misdemeanor counts of battery, and resisting arrest after a burglary spree in Southport on June 4.

The Yolo County District Attorney's office said Tyler Hutchinson burglarized three different homes that afternoon — entering one house through the garage when a family was home.

According to the News-Ledger's files, one of the burglaries was reported by a Perez Court resident. But the most frightening event unfolded on Poppy Street, after Hutchinson entered a home through its garage while a family of four was home. The result was "a terrifying fight" between Hutchinson and the parents before Hutchinson fled, said the D.A.'s office. Hutchinson was spotted nearby and caught by police.

He is scheduled to be sentenced on Dec. 11. He faces up to eight years and eight months, said the D.A.'s office, and rules require him to serve at least 85 percent of any sentence he receives in state prison.

About those trucks...

Local commuters can expect about another week of sharing Jefferson Boulevard with fill-dirt haulers Empty dirt-hauling trucks return from Clarksburg empty past the tower at Southport Town Center, at the corner of Jefferson Boulevard and Lake Washington Boulevard. At times, it's easy to spot a half dozen of the trucks on a single stretch of Jefferson.

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Local commuters have about another week left of sharing the road with all those dirt-hauling trucks now making their runs on Jefferson Boulevard south of the freeway.

Those double-trailer rigs are hauling fill material to a construction site just south of city limits, reported Lieutenant Tod Sockman and Officer Matt Lewis of the West Sacramento Police Department.

"They're coming from Teichert Gravel in Sacramento out by Watt and the Jackson Highway," Lewis told the News-Ledger. "They're going to a site being prepared as a new grape 'crush facility' for Bogle Vineyards of Clarksburg, he added.

The building site must be elevated to meet flood control regulations.

"It's a 16-acre pad they have to elevate three or four feet," said Lewis. "That's a lot of dirt."

Travelers on Jefferson during the daylight hours can spot at least one of the trucks at just about any given time — and it's not uncommon to see two or three heading south with a full load while another batch of two or three trucks is coming back northward, empty.

"They're running about 120-140 trucks per day," said Lewis. "It's going from sun-up to sundown. Each truck is getting seven or eight loads per day."

West Sacramento provides the only feasible route for the traffic, he added. If the trucks were to go down I-5 and cross at the Freeport Bridge, they would face a problem. That bridge isn't wide enough to allow the trucks to cross both ways, safely, at the same time.

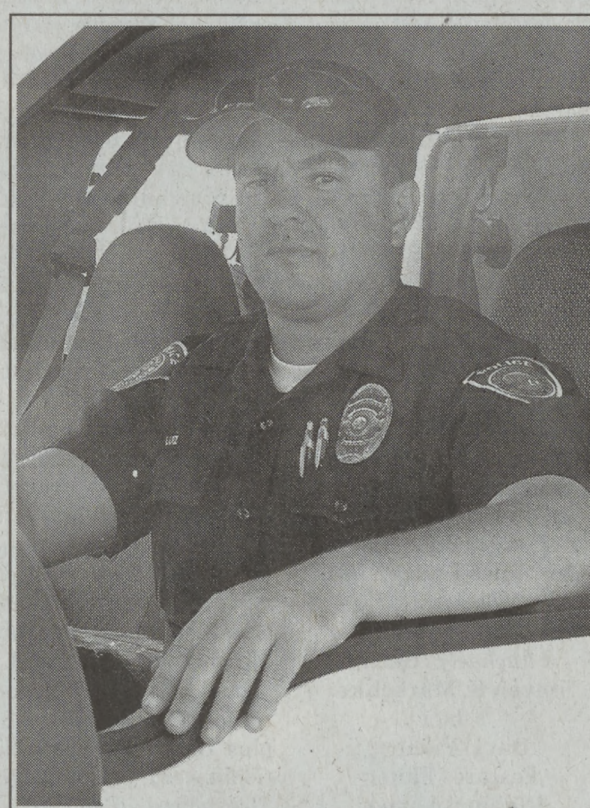

Meanwhile, Lewis — the police department's code enforcement officer who rides in the "commercial enforcement" police truck — is working full-time on keeping the truck traffic in compliance with traffic rules.

"We're not getting any of them for speeding," said Lewis. "We've only gotten one or two of them for speed."

What we're getting is equipment violations. They're not cleaning off their shedboards, and dirt and rocks fall off onto the road."

He has received no reports of cars being damaged by spilled material, he said.

Local commuters have complained that the trucks play havoc with the commute, Lewis added. If a car is in line behind several trucks at a red light on Jefferson, it may be only the trucks that get through on the next "green" cycle. The car may get stuck waiting for another cycle of the traffic light. Some drivers have complained.

One of the dirt-haulers spilled a load on Saturday, failing to negotiate a turn and climb as Jefferson Blvd. goes up onto the levee near the southern city limits. The truck's rear trailer fell over, but nobody was hurt.

Meanwhile, another set of dirt-hauling trucks is removing fill material from the West Capitol Avenue streetscape project and taking it to a southern city levee along the barge canal, said Lewis. Trucks on that job have single trailers, not doubles.

Although the current estimate is for about another week of double-trailer trucks on Jefferson Blvd., said Lewis, a prolonged period of bad weather could stretch out that time period.

Is there really a 'pickup line' that works?

I just received a pretty funny email from a friend I served with in Vietnam who apparently made the mistake of going out to a bar over the weekend and drinking way too much, and some of it reads like this:

"I haven't been in a bar for more years than I care to count," wrote my friend, "and the people I went with kept buying me free drinks, and like the idiot I am, I kept drinking them, and before I knew it, I guess I was making a complete fool of myself, including trying to get this guy who was behind the piano bar to play old Bob Dylan songs he had never even heard of before. You know, I used to be able to hold my liquor, but I guess those days are over. At least I had enough good sense to have someone drive me home. Oh, and in addition to it taking me forever to get to sleep because the room kept spinning around, I'm told I also tried to use a bunch of really tired pickup lines on some poor lady who had been sitting next to me. Believe me, that is the last time I ever step foot in a bar!"

Back when I was doing quite a bit of substitute teaching at River City High School, one of my students (I'll call him John) suddenly came up to my desk and matter-of-factly asked, "Mr. Fisher, would you happen to know any really good pickup lines?"

"Pardon me?" I asked, sure that I had misunderstood him.

"You know," he continued, "one of those pickup lines that a guy can use on a girl he's never met before."

"You mean like the kind of lines guys use in bars?"

"Yeah, that's it."

"Aren't you a little too young to be hanging out in bars, John?"

"Oh, I don't go to bars."

"Then why do you need some pickup lines?"

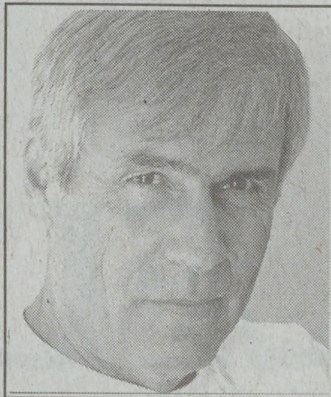

"I'd rather not say, but take my word for it, I do."

"I see."

"I only need a couple of them, though," said John. "Actually, I guess I just need one, if you're sure it will work."

"Well, John," I tried to explain, "I don't think there is such a thing as a fool-proof pickup line. Plus I think you're asking the wrong person. I'm afraid I'm much too old and much too married to be of much help to you when it comes to pickup lines. But why don't you give the Internet a try. They've got just about everything on there nowadays."

"But I don't have a computer, Mr. Fisher." "Well," I finally said, trying to be the best substitute teacher possible, "I tell you what I'll do. If I can remember, the next time I'm on my home computer, I'll take a little look for you and see if I can come up with something."

"Can you do it before the big dance next weekend?"

"I think so."

"Thanks, Mr. Fisher! I was going to ask one of the real teachers, but I thought I would try you first."

And here is some of what I was able to come up with for John:

Can I borrow a quarter? I want to call my mother and tell her I just met the girl of my dreams.

My name isn't Elmo, but you can tickle me any old time you want.

Are you bored enough to talk to me? My puppy would really love you.

Your parents must be pyromaniacs, because you're really hot.

Do you mind if I stop pretending that I'm not staring at you?

You don't know me, but I think you really should.

I didn't use to believe in love at first sight.

If I could rearrange the alphabet, I'd put U and I together.

Pardon me. I seem to have lost my phone number. Can I borrow yours?

Are you from Tennessee? Cuz you're the only ten I see in here tonight.

What a lovely dog! Does it have a phone number?

Can I have a picture of you? I want Santa Claus to know exactly what I want for Christmas this year!

My imaginary friend thinks you're really cute.

I know I look like a nerd but it's only a disguise.

I think Dreyfuss was innocent, how about you?

Your dad must be a mechanic, because you have a very finely tuned body.

Don't you remember me from somewhere?

Can I end my next sentence with a proposition?

How many drinks do you think it would take before I started looking good to you?

And finally, the only pickup line I came across that I think might work on a pretty consistent basis: Hi, I'm rich, I really want to settle down and get married, and I don't believe in prenuptials.

What sort of parenting household or family training do you need?

Early next year, the Arthur F. Turner Community Library in West Sacramento, a Yolo County Library, will begin offering free workshops for parents seeking to improve their family's literacy, relationships with their children, and the health and stability of their family in these difficult economic times. In order to best serve the community of West Sacramento, the library is asking those interested to fill out a short survey letting the library know which topics they would like to see covered, as well as days and times workshops should be offered.

"It is our intent to enlist experts from local community organizations, as well as our own library staff, to lead a variety of parenting workshops," said Yolo County Librarian Patty Wong in a press release. "Possible topics may include early literacy strategies with your baby or toddler, family mental health, or writing a resume and job searching online. According to a 2003 Kent State University study, family literacy programs, such as these, improve not only the knowledge of parents, but also the academic achievement, health and development of the entire family."

To provide input on parenting workshops to be offered at the Arthur F. Turner Community Library in West Sacramento, complete the survey provided at the circulation or reference desks at the library located at 1212 Merkley Avenue in West Sacramento, or complete the survey online: www.yolocountylibrary.org (go to Featured Information on library homepage).

More information on Arthur F. Turner Community Library parenting workshops will follow in early 2010.

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa

I guess Manny Pacquiao proved to the boxing world last Saturday in Las Vegas that he just maybe the best-pound-for-pound fighter in the world after winning his seventh title in seven weight classes.

Pacquiao destroyed Cotto winning easily while pounding the Puerto Rican fighter into submission. The referee Kenny Bayless stopped the contest after 12 rounds of punishment absorbed by the once proud WBO champion Miguel Cotto.

Cotto did receive $7 million for his whipping while the Pac Man received $13 million plus a percentage of the Pay-Per-View receipts, which was huge for HBO at $54.95 per household.

Showtime is jumping into the boxing arena with a Super Six World Boxing classic tournament featuring the best middleweights (160 lbs.) in the world actually fighting each other instead of hiding from each other for easy fights.

The tournament, which will consist of nine preliminary bouts followed by the semifinals and final, began on Oct. 10 and will finish in May or June of 2011. Win or lose, the six fighters will each fight at least three times with the top four advancing to the semifinals based on their point totals. Fighters get two points for a win, an additional point if it's by knockout and one point for a draw.

The six boxers, Mikkell Kessler, Carl Froch, Arthur Abraham, Jermain Taylor, Andre Ward and Andre Dirrell are some of the world's best super middleweights on the planet and are virtually guaranteed to provide several exciting fights leading up to the finale in 2011. These six fighters have a staggering combined record of 161-4-1 with 117 knockouts.

This Saturday, Nov. 17th, at the Oracle Arena in Oakland Mikkell Kessler (42-1, 32KO's) from Denmark, who will also be putting up his WBA title, will be fighting Oakland's Undefeated Gold medalist, Andre Ward (20-0, 13 KO's). The fight is live on Showtime (west coast delay -7 p.m.). The doors open at 4:30 p.m. and tickets are priced from $35 to $300.

Kings Korner

The Sacramento Kings young guns continue to win and will be looking for their fifth consecutive win on Tuesday night against the Chicago Bulls. The last time the Kings won five in row was January 31 to Feb. 10, 2007.

If you haven't been out to see the Kings new team you would really enjoy watching these young guys Run and Gun and actually play a little defense. Rumors have the Kings shopping little used forward Kenny Thomas to the Hornets for the overpriced center Emeka Okafor. Thomas is great trade bait because his $8.7 million expiring contract would help a team rebuild with a salary savings to shop the free agent market next season.

By acquiring the 6-foot-10 255-pound Okafor the Kings would not be in a good position to shop the free agent market next season because he still has five Friday was the last game for River City High School's football teams. They faced the Dixon Rams in the house of the Raiders.

With fans pumped up and cheering, the RCHS junior varsity shut down Dixon with a 65-7 score, ending their season undefeated.

The Raider varsity squad, though, left the field after its game with a 34-14 loss. They ended their season with a 3-7 record and left the field with their heads held high.

Breanna Gray is a dedicated volleyball player and a dedicated student. She's been playing volleyball for 6 years and still planning to play volleyball in College. She doesn't know which College she wants to go to, but she wants to major in Marine Biology or Forensic Science.

"The best thing about playing volleyball is that you don't have to take P.E.," says Breanna. She describes how she feels when she starts a volleyball game. She says that she's nervous at first but then when she makes a kill, which is when you spike the ball and it hits the ground without anyone touching it, she starts getting all pumped up.

Her strongest motivation comes when the team is a few points behind and she starts getting mad. She tries to focus on the game and not yell at any of her teammates.

The hardest class she has is AP English; she thinks it's hard because of all the weekly essays. "Does an open fourth period count as a favorite subject?" Breanna says with a laugh.

Breanna Gray is in the top three places for hitting, kills, assists, aces, blocks, and digs. Good job Breanna and good luck.

The varsity boy's soccer succeeded in half of their goal. The varsity soccer team made section playoffs, but finished in third place. That won't stop the Raiders from winning. No matter what place they entered the playoffs in, the boys wanted to win this section title for the second year in a row. As the Raiders arrived at Capital Valley High School, the Hawks were ready to play. Before the Raiders played, they prayed to God to thank him for getting them this far.

30 minutes in the game the score was still 0-0. Five minutes later the Hawks scored their first goal on Eduardo Suarez. The last 5 seconds of the first half, #9 Miguel Angel Napolos scores the first goal for the Raider and tied the game 1-1.

As the second half started, the Raiders held off the Hawks from scoring. The years and $62.5 million left on his contract. The upside would be a young six-year veteran center that would complement the Kings new push to grab rebounds and Run and Gun.

The Kings have scored 100-plus points in their last six games which puts them 6th in the league in points scored but the statistic that is very impressive is that Sacramento ranks 2nd in offensive rebounds and 5th in total rebounds and 10th in steals.

The Kings are home on Tuesday before they hit the road for a Friday (5:30) game in Dallas followed by a back-to-back on Saturday in Houston (5:30). The Kings will then head to Memphis on Monday (5 p.m.) to play the Grizzlies, who released Allan Iverson after three games this season. Rumor has the New York Knicks interested in the 10-time All-Star which would probably be a good fit for the aging guard, who hates to practice. Practice!

Week 11 NFL

Da Raiders (2-7) are done! After resting up their injured players during their bye and the last place Chiefs coming to town you figure the Silver and Black would finally get their heads together and win a football game.

Well, it was the exact opposite; with Oakland benching their overgrown quarterback Russell and replacing him with Bruce Gradkowski, the Raiders lost 16-10. Russell threw for 64 yards and Gradkowski added another 49 yards to bring their grand total, minus two sacks for 23 yards, net passing yards to 90. It's time to give their 3rd string quarterback Charlie Frye a few snaps behind their weak offensive line—at least Frye can run for his life.

The Raiders' best player Shane Lechler punted 11 times and Janikowski streak of 20 field goals in row dating back to his last miss on November 16, 2008 ended with his 45-yard wide right attempt and the Raiders trailing 13-10.

Did I mention Da Raiders had a season high 10 penalties for 88 yards and that their butter fingered wide receivers dropped eight catchable passes including their No. 1 pick Heyward-Bey's drop of a 55-yard bomb that would have put the Raiders on top early in the second quarter.

The 49ers (4-5) played just as bad as the Raiders in their 10-6 Thursday night win against Da Bears but their effort will show up in the win column and keeps their fading hopes alive for a playoff berth.

The 49ers ended a four-game losing streak and won for the first time since Oct. 4. The offense was lackluster again, but Frank Gore had 104 yards and a 14-yard touchdown, and Joe Nedney added a late 21-yard field goal.

The 49ers best player that night was Bears quarterback Jay Cutler who threw five interceptions dragging an agonizing night of football into the final seconds with the Niners picking off his last second desperation pass in the end zone.

The 49ers will travel to Green Bay (10 a.m.-FOX) while Oakland prepares to host the Cincinnati Bengals (1 p.m.-Blackout).

Aztec's Picks

My dog "Aztec" lost last week with Da Raiders, Jets and Browns but he did manage two wins including his college lick of the week (Boise State) and now sits on a respectable 29-19 record. This week Aztec "Lick of Week" are his cousins, the Fresno Bulldogs (-11) at home against Louisiana Tech.

In the NFL, the Panthers (-3) will feast on Dolphins at home on Thursday night, the Lions (-3) will another game this season, of course, the Browns are in Motown and the N.Y. Giants (-5) will cage the Falcons while on Monday night the Texans (-4) take no prisoners against Tennessee.

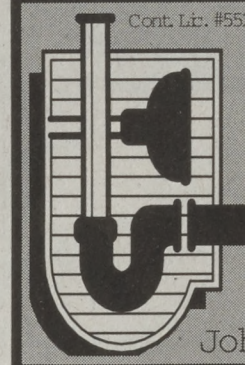

Korner Kicks

The Los Angeles Galaxy, led by their two bickering World Cup players, David Beckham and Landon Donovan, has finally made it to the Major League Soccer Cup final. The Galaxy will play Real Salt Lake on Sunday, November 22nd (5:30 p.m.-ESPN).

On the local front, the Sacramento State Hornets Men's soccer team has a Mountain Pacific Sports Federation championship and its first bid into the NCAA Tournament. The Hornets (12-4-3) earned the Universities first appearance following a penalty kick shootout win over New Mexico State to play Loyola Marymount on Saturday (1 p.m.) in Los Angeles with the winner facing sixth-seeded powerhouse U.C.L.A. Man faces rabies treatment:

Health Department seeks dog in biting incident in Broderick

County health officials are looking for the owners of a "German shepherd/pit bull mix" dog that bit a man on Nov. 7 at the Broderick Boat Ramp in West Sacramento.

The Yolo County Health Department said the 48-year old victim was walking near the restroom at the boat ramp when he was bit at about 10:30 a.m. The dog was described as large, with a black body and tan snout, probably female, with a collar and leash. The dog may have been named "Roxy" or "Jasmine." With the dog was a male Caucasian, about 40-45 years old, 5' 6" tall, with average build, blue jeans, green T-shirt, a cap and a bike. Also with the dog was a woman, Caucasian, about 40 years old, 5' 6" tall, average build, shoulder-length blonde hair, and possibly named "Melissa."

The couple had another dog as well – a large adult black Lab, probably female, also possibly named "Roxy" or "Jasmine." The couple may be homeless and living near the ramp.

If the dog that bit is not located soon, the victim may have to undergo treatment for rabies.

Anyone with information is asked to call (530) 666-8646 or (916) 375-6475 on weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., or (530) 668-5287 at any hour. Callers may remain anonymous.

'Broderick in the house!'

Two 16-year olds convicted of beating victim during robbery

A jury on Nov. 4 convicted two 16-year old West Sacramento boys of being gang members and committing felonies related to a robbery in a West Sacramento parking lot on March 12, 2008.

The boys were tried as adults and their names were released by the Yolo County District Attorney's office.

Charles Rios and Benito Morales, Jr. were convicted of being "active participants" in the "Norteno" criminal street gang and of theft and receiving stolen property. A jury hung 11-1 on the charge of "assault by means of force likely to cause great bodily injury."

According to the office of Yolo County District Attorney Jeff Reisig, the pair beat a national guard soldier into a coma while stealing his wallet. A witness said that five minutes before the attack, Rios asked the witness for a knife and said he was plotting something. A second witness heard the attack and identified Rios and Morales as the two who fled from the fallen victim. The witness reported that as they ran away, Rios yelled out "Broderick in the house!" – an apparent reference to the Broderick Boys street gang. The witness also said that Morales had boasted about jumping the victim. Police found the victim's credit cards and social security card in possession of Rios.

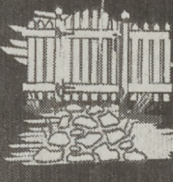

The pair will face a re-trial on the "hung" count of felony.

'Rotten egg' smell due to odorized gas

A "rotten egg" smell reported in West Sacramento, Woodland and Davis on Nov. 11 was the result of a "high amount" of an odorant that had been added to natural gas moving through Central Valley pipelines, said the West Sacramento Fire Department.

The odorant, called mercaptan, is added to natural gas because it is otherwise odorless, and leaks would otherwise be hard to detect. A particular batch of the gas was over-odorized.

PG&E reported that the natural gas and its odors were safe. It was expected to dissipate as the gas moved through the system.

NEWS-LEDGER EDITORIAL:

Orange cones, leaping backhoes, & dust

Let's see, now:

West Capitol Avenue west of Jefferson is still a construction-zone mess, festooned with orange cones, earthmoving equipment and dirt paths.

South of the freeway, commuters are finding themselves stacked up at traffic lights behind dirt-hauling, double-trailer trucks making runs to the south for a Clarksburg construction project.

Other "dirt trucks" (the ones with single trailers) are on local roads hauling earth from the West Capitol project to south-area levees. (West Capitol Avenue used to have a severe "crown" in the middle; part of the current construction project requires that this crown be shaved down a bit.)

And the Harbor Boulevard freeway intersection remains unsightly and awkward in the early stages of its transformation to a "partial cloverleaf."

All together, that's a lot of noise, dust and inconvenience.

In this economy, ain't that beautiful?

It's tough to count how many superintendents Washington Unified School District has had in the past 20 years or so. But the past three years with Steven Lawrence at the helm probably ranks as one of the more lengthy and untroubled tenures. Lawrence may soon leave for another job.

It's a slim hope that the next superintendent will last much longer than three years.

This isn't the "old days" anymore. School districts are hard to govern, and school boards have a habit of changing superintendents like they change socks. Meanwhile, the game for most superintendents is not to find a great job and stay with it until retirement — it's to find a bigger and better job, generate some accomplishments for the ol' resume, and then move on to an even better post somewhere else. The trick, for most superintendents, is to stay with one district just long enough to show some stability, then depart for a higher salary somewhere else before a fickle school board has a chance to "turn on you."

The days of superintendents who run a school district for 10 or 20 years are almost entirely over.

This system doesn't encourage a superintendent to plan for the long term. What happens in five or ten years is no longer very relevant for a school superintendent, since he or she will probably be gone by then. What matters are short-term gains -- even if these gains are built on a shaky foundation.

Wrong school

I am a student at West Sacramento Prep Charter School and my name is Sergio. I was confused to see that you mistakenly said I was from Westmore Oaks ("Evening of gaming for the teens," News-Ledger, Nov. 11).

I actually go to Charter, which is on the old Westmore Oaks Campus on Fallbrook Street. I think our school is a very good school to go to because we are able to each use a computer whenever we need to. We use them for our research and we don't have to wait all day to use them like I did last year.

Our school is cool and different because I get to choose my own projects, the teacher's don't pick them all for me. I think this is good because not all students agree on what makes a project interesting and if you don't think something is interesting you won't work on it or do a good job on it. Charter is also cool because we can sign up for a different P.E. class every day, we check the website and see what's offered and sign-up online. We can also sign up for Seminars if they look interesting to us, like Mr. Garber's Seminar on building Solar Powered Cars or Mrs. Cabrera's Seminar on Slavery. We are able to go on field trips too, a lot of them. We use them as research for our projects.

It's also cool to be able to choose our own partners. If I don't get along with someone I don't have to work with them. I can do projects with any student even students in different classrooms. Also, if I want to work with a certain teacher on a certain project I just have to ask and I can work with whichever teacher I want.

I just wanted to write and let you know about our school, because I really like it.

The idea of Go Figure is to arrive at the figures given at the bottom and right-hand columns of the diagram by following the arithmetic signs in the order they are given (that is, from left to right and top to bottom). Use only the numbers below the diagram to complete its blank squares and use each of the nine numbers only once.

GUEST COMMENTARY: Rotary 'rallies' for servicepeople

From Clayton Blakeley
West Saco Rotary Club

While many around the region were enjoying a day off in celebration of Veterans

Day, members of the West Sacramento Rotary Club were "rallying the troops" to embark on the Annual "Operation Shoeboxes for Soldiers" campaign to provide our troops overseas some comfort from home during the holidays.

"Shoeboxes for Soldiers" is one of the club's international programs begun several years ago through which hundreds of West Sacramentans have provided thousands of boxes (originally placed in shoeboxes) filled with items in high demand by our men and women serving in Iraq and Afghanistan so that they know they are in our hearts this season. The club's International Service chair Jim Piatt has provided all the latest info on soldier requests and here are a few of the items most in demand this season: candy (heat resistant - no chocolates), Twizzlers, Fruit Breezers (throat drops), dental hygiene items (floss, mouthwash, toothbrushes, toothpaste), personal hygiene/care products (baby wipes, nose spray, eye drops, deodorant, foot powder, hand lotion, waterless hand sanitizers, nail clippers, Q-tips, disposable razors, shampoo, sunscreen), beverages (instant coffee, creamers, Gatorade, powdered drink mixes), snacks (energy bars like Cliff or Balance, beef jerky, Girl Scout Cookies, canned fruit in pop-top cans) reading materials (books, short stories, magazines), bug spray, fly tape, fly swatters, duct tape, disposable cameras, shoe insole cushions and pre-paid phone cards.

"When you think about the things that our soldiers don't have that we take for granted, it really reminds you how much of a sacrifice they make every day in service to our country," noted West Sacramento Rotary president Tissy Simmons, who encouraged club members and all West Sacramento residents to fill a box or two for our soldiers with a card, small American flag or note of encouragement and deliver them to the West Sacramento Chamber offices at 1414 Merkley, suite 1. The Post Office provides free Priority Mail boxes (number 4 or 7 box recommended) and Jim Piatt reminds supporters of this program to be sure you take care when packing food items with toiletry items in the same box since contents may leak, particularly in the warm weather. For more details and the complete list of items and instructions, you can email Jim at the following email: jim@jimpiatt.com.

The "Rotary" troops were also busy helping on the home front preparing to provide meals for the less fortunate in our community this Thanksgiving. Community service directors Luke Giordano and Randy Carlson are gathering donations from the club for families wishing to prepare a holiday feast but lacking adequate resources. Rotarian David Pressley, general manager of West Sacramento's Wal-Mart, generously stepped up on behalf of the store to provide a donation of 75 turkeys to the effort. Anyone wanting to help this program can contact the service directors at lucas.giordano@lpl.com or rcarlson@minutemanpress.com. "With some hard work and support from the community, West Sacramento Rotarians are trying to ensure that no one goes hungry in our backyard and that our troops abroad are reminded how much we appreciate their service to our country," says Simmons.

"West Sacramento is taking an important step toward reducing teen smoking by holding those who sell tobacco to our youth responsible for their actions," said Drummond in the press statement. "What makes this ordinance so special is it was initiated by West Sacramento teens who saw the high volume of tobacco sales to teens as a serious problem. They wanted to see a change and were willing to do something about it."

The license fee will be "based on real costs determined by calculating the overall cost of consistent, proactive enforcement and administration and will equal the cost of enforcement annually," said the press release. Making a "profit" from the license fee is prohibited.

Enforcement efforts for the ordinance in Davis have included "sting" operations, with underage volunteers working with law enforcement personnel and attempting to buy cigarettes and tobacco products. Clerks and establishments that have sold to the "decoys" have been cited.

SPORTS from p. 3

Hawks had a corner kick and finally made it on Eduardo Suarez. The ball ricochet off of #8 Richie Ramirez and went in, giving the Hawks the lead again. Five minutes before the second half was over, #8 Richie Ramirez redeemed himself by scoring the second goal for the Raiders. The game was over with the score 2-2 between the Raiders and the Hawks. The refs said they must go over time. In over time, both teams have 10 minutes to play. The first OT, both teams could not score a goal. The second OT, the Hawks scored two goals and won the game. The final score was 4-2 Hawks. Even though the Raiders lost, everyone kept their heads held high and hope to go to playoffs again next year.

Seat belt enforcement needs improvement.

More than 175 local law enforcement agencies and the California Highway Patrol are participating in "Click It or Ticket," which is funded by a grant originating in the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

A press release from the department said that seat belts "absolutely" save lives, and that the state's 95.4 percent compliance with seat belt laws, while impressive,
